

RESPILUCAT

Respiratory

Herbal controlled feeds made with certified raw materials suitable for use in organic production enriched with officinal plant extracts, especially advisably used for prevention and control of respiratory processes.

Description

Our Ecolucat feeds range sets the basis of nutrition, from which we developed Herbalucat, adding the necessary nutraceutical compounds, using on demand "ad hoc" formulas, depending on the severity of the health problem within livestock farming, and a method of presenting pathologies and zootechnical management measures. All extracts are used from officinal plants and have been evaluated for their proven effectiveness and are correctly approved for organic production.

Target Species

Feed suitable for use in ruminants and monogastrics.

Tips for Usage

Administer according to the instructions on the label, it is recommended to consult with the veterinary technician the daily amounts of administration required, based on the farm's production and health data.
